The Pastor Speaks

Can You Stick It Out?

In Hebrews 10:36 we read, "For ye have need of patience, that, after ye have done the will of God, ye might receive the promise." Patience is basically the ability to endure difficulty with the joy and victory. Patience is one of the most needed Christian virtues to be found.

It is needed, for example, in the life of a young Christian. Many a person enters the delightful path of following Jesus Christ with excitement and joy, only to have this excitement and joy disappear in gloom and emptiness. He needs the patience to endure.

Other people allow the difficulties of life to weigh heavily on their minds and conscience. Such difficulties as sorrow, temptation, and physical illness cause a person to lack patience. He gives in to the pressure of the trails of life and becomes a defeated, thoroughly empty Christian.

Other people become so wrapped up in their business that they have little time for the things of the Lord. This is a growing problem. A person who becomes so wrapped up in the world of everyday work that he has no time for the Lord is lacking this ability to endure and persist. The business or the daily work becomes a strangling influence which chokes all spiritual life out of that person.

What can be done about it? Paul had the answer in Philippians 4:13 when he said, "I can do all things through Christ which strengtheth me." Through the power of the risen Christ, we can have the patience which endures under difficulty, under temptation, and amidst life's trying moments.

OUTWARD APPEARANCE

Lesson for September 14, 1969

Background Scripture: 1 Samuel 16; 18:1-16; 24; 2 Samuel 1:1-16; 21-11; 5:1-12; 6:1-5; 12-15.
Devotional Reading: 1 Samuel 16:6-13.

On the day that President Abraham Lincoln stood among the graves on Cemetary Hill and delivered what we know today as the Gettysburg Address, a newspaper editor from Harrisburg, Pa. stood in the audience and put away his notepad when the awkward-looking chief executive began to speak. There would be no need, he mused, to record these words.

Returning to Harrisburg, he wrote his story, paying lavish praise to the other speakers. Of Lincoln, he wrote: "We pass over the silly remarks of the President; for the credit of the nation, we are willing that the veil of oblivion shall be dropped upon them and that they shall no more be repeated or thought of."

Looking the Part

Like so many of Lincoln's contemporaries, the editor had judged him on the basis of his appearance which was hardly attractive. His face might be generously described as "homely" and his whole stance and bearing had an air of awkwardness that seemed more in keeping with the "backwoods" of the frontier from which he had come. Lincoln did not "look the part" of a President, let alone a great President.

Yet, often we find that a man does not have to "look the part." Long before David had become king of Israel, God had warned Saul concerning him: "Do not look upon his appearance or the height of his stature . . . for the Lord sees not as man sees; man looks on the outward appearance, but the Lord looks on the heart" (1 Samuel 16:7).

Apparently David was not nearly so impressive-looking as Saul. David, it seems, was quite short in stature, while Saul was strikingly tall. David did not look the part of either warrior or monarch. Yet God chose David to replace Saul for reasons of his own heart. In time, however, the people realized that Saul was not nearly the leader that David was. What was the reason for David's success, they wondered? The answer: his commitment to God and the covenant.

An Ambitious Program

At the death of Saul, therefore, the people began to look to David. First the southern tribes sought him out and established him as their leader. For seven and one-half years he ruled over them. Finally, a delegation of Israelites came to him at Hebron and asked him to be their king as well. The man who had not "looked the part" made the twelve tribes one nation!

For the first time, then, the people of the various tribes were seeing themselves as one people under God. The reason for their unity would not lie in their similarities (for each tribe had unique characteristics and heritage), nor in their common geography (for the north and south were geographically unalike), nor in their mutual dependence (the northerners did not really need their cousins in the south); rather, their unity could be traced to one factor alone; the one God desired them to be his people!

Inconspicuous, but. . .

When he had made his covenant with the people at Hebron, David set about to begin a three-point program: (1) to unify the tribes of north and south into one nation; (2) to capture the city of Jerusalem and make it the central capital of the nation; (3) to establish a relationship of mutual trust with neighboring nations. In an ambitious program, with an inconspicuous God, with the help of God in all this and more.

Let us remember next week as we look upward and forward appearance."

We'll harvest the largest corn crop ever this fall, which brings to mind storage.

Sometime ago I heard R. O. Mays, a grain dealer near Petersburg, discuss how he stores excess grain and beans on the ground. He uses two sheets (taped together) -- 80 x 100 polythlene sheets. This stores 50,000 bushels.

There's a lot of silage on the ground. Dry corn can be stored this way also. Only trouble: You would have to dry your corn before trying this method.

Mays was keeping his grain on the ground from November til April. He figures the cost of drying at 1¢ on 5% moisture removed and 1 3/4¢ for 10% removal. For a dealer he says the big loss is grain shrinkage.

If your regular seed source does not have Foundation seed available, there is a supply of certain varieties of small grain from the Crop Improvement Association.

Foundation seed should be used by those planning to produce certified seed.

So you want to fatten steers!! It is being done with corn silage by Virginia farmers. Corn silage is the least costly feed.

Quality silage is necessary. Silage testing 24 to 26 percent TDN with 38-40 percent dry matter is required.

Fat 700-800 pound yearling on this kind of silage plus one pound of digestible protein per day from any source. Feed at least twice daily. In 150-160 days the cattle should be breaking over into the low choice grade.

Flood Relief Is Given

The local Shopper's Fair Division of Mangel Stores Corporation has donated $2500.00 to the flood victims in nearby communities. The $2500.00 is being administered by the Salvation Army, under the direction of Captain Kitchen.

J. L. Rosenthal, president of Mangel Stores, learned of the disaster and phoned Lynchburg store manager M. D. Jones to get full details. When Mr. Rosenthal learned of the widespread damage he immediately called a meeting of his chiefs of staff in Mangel's New York home office to decide what could be done to help the many people in need in the Lynchburg area.

Many plans were considered and it was decided, with the cooperation of Captain Kitchen and The Salvation Army to make the $2500 donation, in the form of $5.00 coupon, to be distributed on the basis of need, by The Salvation Army. It was thought by the Mangel chief executive that Shopper's Fair could help more people directly this way and they could purchase whatever their personal need might be. It also is hoped that Shopper's Fair's generous effort might encourage other merchants to help flood victims.

The Appomattox Times-Virginian started the presses rolling and printed the coupons overnight. Mr. Jones presented Captain Kitchen with 500-$5.00 coupons the next day at the WLVA studios, in Lynchburg. Through the cooperation of many and fast work, many people have been helped.
